A Champion for Gov. Barstow.

Ex-Speaker and Emigrant Commissioner F. W. Horn occupies nearly two columns in the Madison Democrat of Monday last, whereof a column and a half are devoted to a defense of Gov. Barstow and no attack upon the Milwaukee Sentinel, and two brief paragraphs at the end to what he has done in his new office. It is held to be the height of ingratitude for even a dog to bite the hand that feeds him. Let us not wonder therefore that our whilom fellow-whig, Fred. Horn, luxuriating in a well paid and little-to-do office in the city of New York, the gift of Gov Barstow, should feel especially moved to defend that worthy functionary against the wicked assaults of certain evil-minded presses in this State. The Ex-Speaker insists, of course, that Gov. Barstow's veto of the Emigrant Agency bill, was per only right and proper, and confidently anticipates that every "unprejudiced" man in the State will come to the same conclusion when he reads the bill and the veto together. Perhaps every "unprejudiced" man like himself, who holds a good office by appointment of the Governor, will agree in this opinion, but we entertain very grave doubts whether it will find favor with the prejudiced masses who don't hold office, but do have to foot the bills.

But not content with defending his next friend and liberal patron, the Governor, the Ex-Speaker pays his respects, at great length, to the Sentinel, and we can do no less than reciprocate the civilities. Mr. Speaker complains firstly, in regard to his own appointment, that the Sentinel, after admitting that it was constitutional, continues "to copy from other papers extracts to injure the efficiency of the office, here and at home." By no manner of means, Fred. The Sentinel has no such object in view. The extracts referred to were copied by us with a view, simply, to show in what estimation "Barstow and the balance" were held by the press and people of this State for this and sundry other evil deeds at Madison during the past winter. If the mere publication of the facts, that Gov. Barstow vetoed the Agency bill and continued the Emigrant Commissioner's office, in contempt and disregard of public opinion and in defiance of the expressed will of the Legislature, is calculated to "injure the efficiency of the office" at home and abroad, let the blame rest where it properly belongs, with those who thus outraged the sentiment of the People and of their Representatives.

Having disposed of this business, the Ex-Speaker proceeds to deal with the Sentinel on other counts. We quote, at length, the next grave charge.

I have this moment received the Sentinel of the 17th inst., and the first article headed "A Precedent for Gov. Barstow," is one of the many articles above referred to for the purpose indicated by me. The Sentinel and his coadjutors are overshooting the mark, or underrating the intelligence of our people—it will never do to quote one portion of the constitution that suits them and leave out the point in question. The Sentinel in this article endeavors to show that Postmasters are not eligible as members of the Legislature, and quotes some constitutional provision at length in support of it. This article no doubt will be copied greedily by all the "small fry," since the Sentinel gives it as his opinion. But what say you to section 3 of article 13 in the constitution, which reads as follows:

"Sec. 3. No member of Congress nor any person holding any office of profit or trust under the United States, (POSTMASTERS EXCEPTED,) or under any foreign power, etc., etc., shall be eligible to any office of trust, profit or honor in this state."

After reading this I think that the "official organ" is right in telling us that it is" no violation at all" of the constitution and that the Sentinel and its kindred are in every instance over-doing the thing with the people.

Such is the argument of Mr. Speaker, in defence of the eligibility of Postmasters to seats in the Legislature, and of the constitutionality of certain Executive appointments, for which Gov. Barstow has been severely, but justly censured by the Sentinel and other presses in the State.—Now let the reader, after taking the Speaker's point, look at the following provision of our Constitution (Art. 4 Sec. 13.) "No person being a member of Congress, or holding any military, or civil office under the United States, shall be eligible to a seat in the Legislature &c."

The exclusion, it will be seen, is express and emphatic. Postmasters, holding a civil office under the United States, are not eligible to the Senate or Assembly. The clause cited by the Speaker proves, indeed, that they are eligible to some offices in the State, but the section we have quoted bars them out from the Legislature. If Mr. Horn still refuses to be convinced on this point, let us refer him to the following extract from the "Debates of the Convention," which formed our State Constitution:

Mr. LOVELL moved to amend the 13th section, so that the disqualifications of persons holding commissions under the government of the United States, for a seat in the Legislature, shall not extend to Postmasters.

Mr. KING hoped the amendment would not prevail. That point had been discussed in the Committee, and the disqualification extended to Postmasters with but two dissenting votes, in order to carry out a well established maxim that no man could serve two masters. (Journal and Debates, p. 212.)

Amendment rejected.

In view of the above, we submit that the Speaker is even more unfortunate in his defence of Gov. Barstow's unconstitutional appointments, than in his apology for the Executive veto. He would have made a better case of it, if he had set up the same defence for "Barstow and the balance," that he once did for his German fellow-citizens in this State, when deploring their "democratic" proclivities. "My poor, deluded countrymen" said Fred, (being then a whig) "the Lord forgive them—they know not what they do." Ignorance of the Constitution and Law—though it excuses no man, and least of all a Governor—would have been a better plea than the attempt to wrest that Constitution from its true intent and meaning to the authority of open, palpable and repeated wrongs.

THE CLOSING SCENES.—We publish this morning a full report of the closing debate and votes in the Senate, on the final passage of the Nebraska Bill. The scenes enacted formed an appropriate finale to that iniquitous measure. All honor to the thirteen true men in the Senate, who stood firm to the last in their opposition to this outrage upon the North, Right and Freedom.

CATHOLIC CHURCH AT MADISON.—The Madison Journal says that the corner stone of the Catholic Church at Madison was laid, with the Customary ceremonies, on Sunday last. Bishop HENNI and other functionaries being present. The situation of the Church, adds the Journal, is fine, overlooking both the Third and Fourth Lakes, and when erected it will be the most prominent building in town as seen from the Railroad.

POWDER MILL EXPLOSION.—The Powder Mill of Laflin & Smith, at Saugerties, Ulster County, blew up on Thursday, killing seven men and blowing six houses in the vicinity all to pieces. The buildings were of no value. The principal loss will be from the destruction of stock and interruption of the works. The latter loss will be pretty serious, as this is the largest mill in the state, and next to the largest in the United States.

HABEAS CORPUS CASE.—The argument in this case was continued yesterday before Judge SMITH, by District Attorney SHARPSTEIN, for the Government. Mr. WATKINS will close for the defendant, S. M. BOOTH, to-day.

The Sheep Shearing at Whitewater.

We left Milwaukee at 7½ A. M., yesterday, the usual train being considerably increased by the concourse of persons bound for the Sheep Shearing Festival at Whitewater. The weather was still very doubtful, and its condition doubtless prevented many from attending from this section of the State, as it also prevented many from competing for premiums on the ground, and made the variety of breeds quite limited. The clouds cleared away, however, shortly after we lost sight of the lake, and the weather at Whitewater was as beautiful as could be asked. We found several hundred farmers gathered under and around the large tent of the State Agricultural Society, in which pens for the sheep, and arrangements for the shearing, had been made. Some 250 sheep were entered for exhibition and for competition. The following is the list of entries:

LIST OF SHEARERS.

E. F. WILLIAMS, Cold Spring, 1 Spanish Merino buck, 3 yrs.

A. P. WESTON, Waterford, 1 French buck, 5 yrs, sheared June 21st, '53.
R. B. LEE, Summit, 1 Spanish buck, 5 yrs. sheared June 29th, '53.
EDGERTON & MCCARTER, Waterville, 1 yearling Spanish buck; 1 do.
T. C. DOUSMAN, Waterville, 1 Spanish buck, 4 yrs. old, sheared May 31st, '53.
G. PADDOCK, Waterville, 1 Spanish Merino ewe over 3 yrs. sheared June 15th, '53.
E. M. RICE, Richmond, 1 Spanish buck, over 2 yrs. sheared June 15th, '53.
H. TAYLOR, Sugar Creek, 1 yearling Spanish buck, 1 do.
G. C. PRATT, Waukesha, 1 cross breed buck, French & Spanish, 2 years, sheared 25th June; 1 do yearling.
E. F. Williams, of Cold Spring, had on the ground a handsome lot of Spanish Merino sheep, imported from Vermont this Spring. A fine Leicester buck in the same pen, attracted much attention.

At 11 o'clock and 5 minutes, the President of the Society, Mr. EDGERTON, gave the word, and six shearers buckled to it, each with a sheep, and the sharp click of the shears, alternating with the rolling up of the fleeces, continued till 12½ o'clock, when, after three or four tunes from the Whitewater Brass Band, very well given, the officers, members, and shearers adjourned to dinner, laid out near by, provided by a few—a very few—of the good people of Whitewater, and well served.

We are sorry to be obliged to say that, with all of the advantages derived by a town from the holding of such exhibitions in it scarcely a dollar could be collected by the committee of the citizens towards defraying the necessary expenses; and of all the handsome stock held in the town of Whitewater, not a sheep was entered, Mr. Salisbury, whose name is in the list of entries residing in Lima, but having his Post Office at Whitewater.

The shearing was still going on when we left by the afternoon train, there being no prospect of the awards being made before to-day. We shall give them to-morrow.

The experiment of holding an exhibition of sheep in the spring has proved very successful, and we trust that it will be a permanent arrangement.

The country is looking its very best, and the Mil. & Miss. Co. will have to prepare for a heavy business, this fall. Double its present amount of engines and freight cars will be needed to do the work. Every available acre seems to be covered with a rank growth of grain.

Milwaukee and Watertown Railroad.

We have received and read with much satisfaction, the first Annual Report of the Directors of the Milwaukee and Watertown Railroad Company, bringing up the record of their transactions to the 1st day of May last past. This Company was duly organized on the 4th day of January, 1853, by the election of thirteen Directors, under a very liberal charter, granting them the right to locate and construct a single or double track, from the M. & M. Railroad, in the County of Waukesha, to the city of Watertown, and subsequently to extend the same to Portage City, Columbia County, and to La Crosse, on the Mississippi River. In June 1853, the contract for building the road, as far as Watertown, was let to Messrs. Bishop, Stewart, & Co. Under this contract, according to the Report of the Chief Engineer, E. H. BRODHEAD, two-thirds of the grading is finished, the bridging and masonry completed, eight-ninths of the cross-ties delivered, and all the iron, chairs and spikes purchased and in the course of delivery. There is nothing in the way therefore, says the same officer, "of having the road in operation as early as the first of September next."

The cost of the road, complete, at cash prices, is estimated at $740,000, or $23,270 per mile, including 6 locomotives, 4 passenger, 4 baggage, and 100 freight cars. The business of the road, calculated upon the actual returns of the business of the Plankroad for 1853, is put at $162,550. Deducting expenses of operating, interest on bonds, and rent to the Milwaukee and Mississippi R. R. Company, for use of track, and depot-grounds, there remains $38,900, applicable to dividends on stock, which gives about 12 per cent. But this, be it remembered, is founded on last year's business of the Plankroad; and the Chief Engineer well says that he "thinks it safe to estimate the increase of the present year at one third." Mr. BRODHEAD is proverbially close, and cautious in all his estimates, as well of the cost as of the business of Railroads, and we have no doubt that the result will abundantly verify his very favorable opinion of the Milwaukee and Watertown Railroad as an investment.

The following are the Officers and Directors of this road: JOHN S. ROCKWELL, President, E. H. BRODHEAD, Chief Engineer, J. L. HATHAWAY, Secretary, JOSHUA HATHAWAY, Treasurer, ELISHA ELDRED, ELIPHALET CRAMER, HENRY WILLIAMS, W. M. DENNIS, PATRICK ROGAN, A. L. PRITCHARD, ALEXANDER MITCHELL, J. H. TWEEDY, A. B. BRITTIN, L. A. COLE, S. FORD, J. S. ROCKWELL, and ROBERT SCHUYLER, Directors.

TAX payers take notice, that at the next session of the Legislature Lt. Governor Lewis will present a claim for services rendered in attending to the executive business of this State, while Gov. Barstow is absent at Washington spending the $10,000 Contingent Fund, which the legislature placed under his control, in lobbying for land grants for the Valley Road and the removal of Noonan.—Waukesha Democrat.

DEATH FROM ATA-RICE.—The foreign papers tell us that the King of Ava has lately been poisoned by his brother, who has seized the throne, and married the Queen, a la Hamlet. The poison was administered in some boiled rice.

Final Passage of the Nebraska Bill!

The Test Vote in the Senate!

YEAS, 35! NAYS, 15!

THE CLAYTON AMENDMENT REJECTED 41 TO 7!

THIRTY-THIRD CONGRESS—First Session.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 25.

THE NEBRASKA DEBATE—CONTINUED.

The Nebraska Bill was taken up.

Mr. Bayard moved that when the Senate adjourn, it be till Monday. Agreed to.

SPEECH OF MR. BELL.

Mr. Bell said that yesterday he had vainly endeavored to ascertain from the Senators what over-shadowing principle there was in this bill, which induced Southern Senators to declare that they would not hazard the bill by attaching to it, the Clayton amendment, and his remarks had called forth a harsh, offensive and personal assault upon him by the Senator from Georgia, (Mr. Toombs.) He thought that there was sufficient ground in this public action to lash him, if the Senator was disposed to lash him, without going into detail of events transpiring in private meetings, and caucuses of Senators. The Senator had endorsed the charges made against him in the other house by a Tennessee member. Mr. Churchwell of the House, had had a long consultation with him, and professed throughout the whole time the greatest confidence in his (Bell's) judgment, and had hedged him not to make up his opinion on it. He (Bell) assured him he would not until the latest moment. In consultation with Whig colleagues of the House, he had assured them that Mr. Churchwell would vote with them. He did not know until the evening before Mr. Churchwell's speech, that he was to vote for the bill. In the mean time, the most friendly personal and business relations had existed between himself and Mr. Churchwell. This was the agent selected to make this onslaught on him in the House.

The Senator from Georgia must excuse him for having some feeling, when he heard the Senator enforce the charge made in the House. It was said there was no cause for the feeling he had shown yesterday, but he could not but regret to hear the Senator from North Carolina rise and corroborate the statement that all the Southern Whig Senators were in favor of the Bill. No living man could say that he had ever, by word, letter, or even look, given any authority to any man to say he was in favor of the repeal of the Missouri Compromise. He then repeated several conversations he had with his colleagues in the House, and several senators—Whigs and Democrats, in which throughout he had declared he had not come to any definite conclusion on the bill. He never attended, but at two meetings—in neither of which was anything said authorizing any body to announce that all Southern Whigs were in favor of the bill. He had voted to put in the provision repealing the Missouri Compromise, but that vote only put the bill in a clearer and more unexceptionable language, than what was already in it. He had many reasons to be unwilling to take this measure. Amongst others, was the consideration for the National Democracy of the North, who were willing to do justice on this subject. He knew it would endanger their success at home, and expose them to the perils of agitation. He knew the agony which was felt by those who followed in the footsteps of the author of the bill, and he sympathized with them deeply. He knew who it would prove destruction to the National Whigs of the North. He had been charged with having led his colleagues of the House into opposition to the bill. Long before the action on it in the Senate, his colleagues in the House had expressed in strong terms their opposition to the bill. He was rather influenced by them than they by him. He did not think the Senator from Georgia was justified in alluding to transactions in the meeting. He never thought that any one seriously intended to carry out the resolution respecting the course of the National Intelligencer. He doubted that he was present at any meeting at which the Senator from North Carolina was authorized to state that the Southern Whig Senators were united in the support of the bill. When the Senator from North Carolina, yesterday, stated such was the case, he had branded it, as he did now, as untrue. Such a thing may have been done at some meeting after he had left it, but never in his presence. When the Senator from North Carolina got up yesterday, and following the Senator from Georgia, repeated the statement, it appeared to him very much like a conspiracy against him to be commenced in the House, and followed up in the Senate. It had that appearance to his mind now. The Senator from Delaware commenced, yesterday, an explanation, by saying that all Whig Senators were united in favor of the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, and there he was stopped. He wished to know if that Senator meant to say that he (Bell,) was at any time committed to a repeal of the Missouri Compromise?

Mr. Clayton rose to reply. Mr. Bell refused to yield the floor, and continued.

Mr. Bell—I pronounce that statement, refused by any person whomsoever, to be false—to be false.

Mr. Clayton—I did not say so.

Mr. Bell—Then I beg your pardon. The Senator from Georgia looks sternly at me. I do not know what that look means, but let it mean what it may, I say that any intimation, by word, look, or otherwise, to the effect that I favored the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, is false. No living man can say I ever was for that repeal:—Since that meeting, no one had ever mentioned to him the subject of the resolution respecting the National Intelligencer.

Mr. Clayton said he knew of no action on it.

Mr. Bell that confirms my opinion of it—that no one seriously entertained the idea of carrying it into effect. Yet the fact has been treasured up and filtered till it passed through the conduit in the other House to the public. The Senator from Georgia now thought proper to repeat it to the Senate. He said the proposition that a handful of Southern Whigs in one House of Congress should undertake to remonstrate with the National Intelligencer—a paper heretofore considered as the organ of the whole Whig party, North and South—was ridiculous and absurd, and he could not believe any Senator thought of it seriously. He deprecated the idea of any body of men attempting to overrule and muzzle a free press. He gave his cordial approval to the course of the National Intelligencer. Its editor, though an Englishman, had never given cause for any one to suppose he was not thoroughly an American in all his feelings and sympathies. He hoped the Senator from Georgia did not intend to be personal or offensive. But his manner was apparently very offensive, and manner may at times be as much out of order, and offensive as any language. The Senator charged him with him being an ally of the Abolitionists. If the Senator meant, that in voting against the bill, he was an ally of Abolitionists, it was an ad captandum argument, and only worthy of the shallowest and lowest demagogue. If the Senator meant that he was an ally of Abolitionists in feelings, principle, or sympathy, then he meant that which he knew to be utterly false. If he meant that by voting against the bill he was giving "aid and comfort" to the enemies of the South, then he had to say that the Senator had himself given a whole magazine to the enemies, where he had furnished one ration. Even if all stated was true that he was at one time for the bill, he had a right to change after hearing debate. Discussion was designed to favor the deliberate formation of settled opinions. He hoped the bill would have the effect of quieting all agitation and alarm. He looked upon the whole bill as a mere abstraction.

Mr. Toombs said the Senator from Tenn. had address-ed the Senate for three hours in vindication of his own course on this bill. The Senator seemed anxious to know why the facts occurring in the caucus had been published to the country. The reason was apparent. He had stated facts which were notorious, and the Senator had offered no evidence to controvert them.—He intended to confine himself to such of the Senators as would. That caucus was got up for a public purpose, and for no other. Its object was to make known the sentiments of the Southern Senators, and was attended by every Southern whig Senator except three.

The Senator from Delaware had cause to believe that the course of the whig Southern Senators was misunderstood by the country, and particularly in his State, where the National Intelligencer was widely circulated. It was thought that as that paper had been considered the organ of the whig party, its course might be supposed to indicate the position of Southern whigs. It was desired to correct any such impression, and to correct it, it was necessary to make public whatever was done to that end. For this object a resolution was passed, declaring that whig Senators were not represented by views expressed in the National Intelligencer. It was necessary, also, to have the fact made public at the earliest practicable moment. With this view the Senator from North Carolina was requested and directed to make public the fact in his speech the next day. That Senator did so, and the Senator from Tennessee heard the statement made that all the Whig Southern Senators were in favor of the general features of the bill, and did not rise and deny it. It was no private caucus. It was held to make a fact public. He never heard that the Senator was against the bill, till he heard he had voted against it. He had repeated no conversation of the Senator. He had not stated any of his remarks; therefore the imputations of the Senator fell harmless at his feet, and were treated with the contempt which the Senator had so plainly discerned on his countenance. The caucus met, and passed the resolution that the opposition to the Nebraska bill of the National Intelligencer did not meet the approval of Southern Whig Senators. The proceedings were published, substantially, in one of the city papers. There was no secret about it. He spoke of it freely to all and gave copies of the resolution to all who asked for it. There was no Secretary of the meeting, but he was Chairman. He noted down at the time, the names of those present and absent. All were marked present except Morton, Pearce, and Thompson. He called the attention of the meeting to the fact that he was marking down the names of those present and absent. He called on those who were there to say if he had stated the circumstances truly.

Mr. Pratt said his recollection concurred entirely with that of the Senator.

Mr. Bell—Was I there when the Senator from North Carolina was authorized to state that all the Southern Whigs were in favor of the bill?

Mr. Pratt—You were at the meeting, but whether there at the time, I cannot say.

Mr. Bell—I pronounce the statement that I was present when any such authority was given, an infamous falsehood! Any one who says so, states an infamous falsehood!

The Chair—The Senator from Georgia has the floor.

Mr. Bell—It is an infamous falsehood to charge me with consenting to any such declaration. (Loud cries of "Order!" and great confusion.)

Mr. Bell repeated vehemently, several times, that such a declaration made by any person, was an infamous falsehood!

The Chair strenuously demanded order, and insisted on the Senator taking his seat.

Mr. Bell—I know I am out of order; but, Sir, I cannot submit—I deny any power here or elsewhere to compel me to submit to any such imputation.

(Loud cries of "order.")

The Chair directed the Sergeant-at-Arms to require the Senator to be seated.

Mr. Bell continued to repeat that it was an infamous falsehood, but much of what he said could not be heard in the confusion.

Mr. CASS—"Mr. President, I insist that the Senator be compelled to take his seat."

Mr. Bell—"Well, I will take my seat; but I repeat, it is an infamous falsehood."

(Loud cries of "order." He took his seat: but for some minutes after continued speaking, amidst general cries of "order" and the demands of the Chair for silence.

Mr. Toombs said the Senator was very careful to deny only what was not asserted. The Senator did not presume to deny that anything stated by him was not in strict accordance with facts.

Mr. Bell, in his seat, made some reply, which was lost in cries of "order."

Mr. Benjamin explained his recollection of what took place at the caucus, agreeing nearly with Mr. Toombs.

Mr. Bell—Was I there at the time the Senator from North Carolina was so authorized?

Mr. Benjamin—I cannot say who was there.

Mr. Toombs resumed—The Senator from North Carolina had the floor for the day after the caucus, and to get their conclusion made public as soon as possible, he was directed to state that all the Southern Whig Senators were united on the bill. That Senator had done so. There was but one controverted point in the bill, and that was the repeal of the Missouri Compromise. And as the Senator from Tennessee, before that meeting, had voted that provision into the bill, he had reason to suppose that the Senator was in favor of the bill. He had spoken of the public acts of the Senator as notorious, and known to multitudes of men. Had he not therefore grounds to be surprised yesterday to hear the Senator fighting round the ring to find out what the bill meant? The hypothetical insults given by the Senator were not exactly the right thing.

Mr. Bell said he gave no hypothetical insults. As it appeared that the Senator had not said that he was present when such an authority was given to Mr. Badger, the term falsehood did not apply to him. He withdrew them all.

Mr. Toombs repeated that he mentioned the public acts of the Senator, and the grounds on which he supposed the Senator was in favor of the bill. No action was ever taken on the resolution relating to the "National Intelligencer," because the object had been accomplished by Mr. Badger's public statement in the Senate. Otherwise the resolution would have gone into the papers. He had not been able yet to see what reason had been given by the Senator for voting against the bill. The Senator spoke of alarm and terror at the North. This was altogether the act of Abolitionists. It had no terror for those gallant men from the North who voted for this bill. Such an excuse would be no vindication for a Tennessee Senator. The Abolitionists were laughed at, at home and every where else. When these States come to be admitted, if they come under this bill as free States, if living, he would vindicate the principle upon which this bill is framed. The whole South was in favor of the repeal of the Missouri restriction, and had complained of it for 30 years. Men of the North, disregarding the clamor of Abolitionists, had voted for this bill. Yet it was before this Abolition storm that the Senator quailed. He then defended the principles of the bill, and pointed out its happy results.

Mr. Bell then rejoined, and for an hour spoke of political contests in Tennessee,—the Southern feeling and devotion of Tennessee to the Union, &c, &c. He said if his course was not approved by the people of his State, he would resign his seat.

Mr. Badger followed, giving a history of the meeting of the Caucus, the adoption of the resolutions concerning the "Intelligencer," and his authority to state that the Whig Senators approved of the bill. Had he not supposed that he was directly authorized to do so by the Senator from Tennessee, he would have excepted him.

Mr. Bell rejoined, complaining of Mr. Badger's course, and stating that for the future their friendly relations were at an end.

Mr. Clayton also gave the history of the same transaction, and said that nothing was more natural than that gentlemen should have misunderstood each other. He said the Senator from Tennessee had used a remark which was understood to be applied to him.

Mr. Bell said he now publicly withdrew all offensive remarks towards the Senator.

Mr. Clayton resumed and supported his amendment.

Mr. Wade followed in opposition to the bill.—He knew nothing he could say would prevent this deed. The North was humbled to the dust. Its humiliation was complete and overwhelming. He referred to the disclosure made to-day of the secret caucus of Southern Whigs, thus cutting the Northern Whigs off from all consultation on the great issue whether an Empire now free shall surrender forever to slavery. The last link was broken, and the Whig party of the North had now no more encumbrances. The Senate sent present organized, was as bad as the old rotten borough system, where one man represented thousands, and another millions. But when the North could not vindicate herself in the House, what hope was there of her being able to do so in the Senate? To-morrow was the day of the great Eclipse and he saw no more fitting time for the deed. Let the honor of the nation and the glories Sun go into obscurity, at one and the same time! He gave notice that hereafter the North would demand the repeal of this act.

Mr. Brown followed, supporting the amendment.

Mr. Benjamin was in favor of the amendment when the subject was up before, but saw no reason for it so urgent or important as to induce him to hazard the bill, by sending it back to the House. So then spoke for an hour in support of the bill, and appealed to Northern Whigs to unite in this great scheme to put the slavery question for ever out of Congressional control. It was true, he said, as stated by the Senator from Ohio, that to-morrow would take place the great Eclipse, but the Senator knew astronomy enough to be aware that the eclipse would soon pass away, and the glorious orb would again shed upon the world its brilliant rays, with all their wonted splendor and dispel the temporary darkness.

As Mr. Benjamin sat down, the gas was lighted in the chandelier, suddenly illuminating the chamber which had been quite dark. The coincidence called forth considerable applause in the galleries and on the floor of the Senate.

Mr. Bell briefly responded.

Mr. Seward spoke for over an hour against the bill, and reviewed the whole history of slavery aggression.

Mr. Cass followed, replying to Mr. Benton's speech. He defended the right of popular sovereignty, and made an amusing commentary on Mr. Benton's speech.

Mr. Mason opposed the amendment, though agreeing it was correct in principle.

Mr. Mallory followed in favor of the bill and in opposition to the amendment.

Mr. Bayard spoke in favor of the bill and insisting on the amendment.

10½ o'clock, P. M.

Mr. Jones, of Iowa, opposed the amendment, and said his colleague (Mr. Dodge) who had been called home, would have voted against it. His colleague had paired off with Mr. Badger on this amendment, and with Mr. Dodge, of Wisconsin, on the bill.

Messrs. Jones, of Tenn., Butler and Clay, all expressed themselves in favor of the bill, but would not hazard its passage by the House, by attaching the amendment to the bill.

THE CLAYTON AMENDMENT REJECTED!

The question was taken, and the amendment rejected by yeas 7, nays 41, as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Bayard, Bell, Brodhead, Brown, Clayton, Pearce, Thompson, of Ky—7.

NAYS—Messrs. Allen, Atchison, Benjamin, Butler, Cass, Chase, Clay, Dawson, Dodge, of Wis; Douglas, Fish, Fitzpatrick, Foot, Gillette, Gwin, Hunter, James, Johnson, Jones, of Iowa; Jones, of Tenn., Mallory, Mason, Morton, Norris, Pettit, Pratt, Rush, Sebastian, Seward, Shields, Slidell, Stuart, Sumner, Thompson, of Ky; Toombs, Toucey, Wade, Walker, Weller, Williams, Wright—41.

Mr. Chase followed in opposition to the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, and to the bill.

Mr. Brown said that, had not the Senate already plainly indicated that it intended to pass the bill as it came from the House, he would have proposed two amendments. The first was to insert a declaration that the Missouri restriction was inconsistent with the Constitution, and was therefore void and inoperative. The other was that the Badger proviso should be extended to Utah and New Mexico, so that the Mexican law repealing slavery should be abolished. Though he would like to see the amendment inserted in the bill, still he would vote for it.

Mr. Butler said that he had a number of amendments which he would like to see made in the bill, but he forebore offering them, because he feared that the bill might not pass if amended in any shape. He then argued against the right of squatter sovereignty.

Mr. Weller replied, defending the doctrine.—He said that the Senator from Ohio had stated there were only three true Democrats in the Senate.

Mr. Mason—Independent Democrats.

Mr. Weller—Yes independent of party ties, independent of principle, and of all obligations. He knew the Senator from Ohio to be an honest man and one who acted upon principle, but he did not intend by any means to attribute that character to the Senator from New York. He had, after hearing the Senator to-night, become perfectly satisfied that there were such things in the world as hollow-hearted demagogues. He thought the Senator was one of those. He made many other personal reflections upon the Senator from New York.

Mr. Pratt called the Senator to order.

Mr. Weller admitted that he was out of order, but said that he could not have slept to-night, unless he had expressed publicly his private opinion of the Senator from New York. He then finished his speech.

Mr. Seward said he desired to make an acknowledgment to the Senator from Maryland who had interposed unexpectedly and unsolicited, a few moments since.

The bill was then reported to the Senate, and put on its engrossment.

Mr. Sumner, at a quarter to twelve, commenced speaking against the bill. By unanimous consent he was allowed to present a number of petitions against the Nebraska bill, including 125 remonstrances from clergymen of every Protestant denomination in New England. These letters, he said, were intended to form part of the mammoth memorial presented by his colleague some time since. He then defended the clergy of New England for publicly denouncing the bill and protesting against its passage. The pulpit of New England (he said) would never again defend slavery from any attack made upon it.

Mr. Mason objected to the reception of the remonstrance of the clergy, because as their conduct was explained by the Senator they were evidently profaning their sacred office. He desired in behalf of the church in the South to say that the clergy of the South had no connection with the clergy of New England, in this mangling of political affairs for unworthy purposes.

Mr. Sumner briefly responded.

At a quarter past 12, Mr. Douglas commenced the closing speech in support of the bill. He repented his denunciation of blasphemous sermons and the memorials of the clergy. He replied at length to the intimations that this bill would be resisted, and henceforward stern opposition to all laws upon the subject of slavery would be universal at the North.

Mr. Toucey said he had expressed his views on a former occasion, and he now fully concurred in all he had then expressed. He had been instructed by the present Whig-Abolition Legislature of Connecticut to vote against the bill. After mature reflection, he had come to the conclusion to disobey these instructions, and obey the instructions of the Constitution.

THE ENGROSSMENT ORDERED.

The bill was then ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, by the following:—

YEAS—Messrs. Atchison, Badger, Benjamin Brodhead, Brown, Butler, Cass, Clay, Dawson, Douglas, Fitzpatrick, Gwin, Hunter, Johnson, Jones of Iowa, Jones of Tenn. Mallory, Mason, Morton, Norris, Pearce, Pettit, Pratt, Rusk, Sebastian, Shields, Slidell, Stewart, Thompson of Ky. Thompson of N. J, Toombs, Toucey, Weller, Williams and Wright—35

NAYS—Messrs. Allen, Bell, Chase, Clayton, Fish, Foot, Gillette, Hamlin, James, Seward, Sumner, Wade, Walker—13.

Mr. Sumner said he had a letter from his colleague (Mr. Everett) endeavoring to make arrangements to pair off with some other Senator, but no such arrangement had been made. If present he would vote against the bill.

Mr. Butler said if his colleague (Mr. Evans) were present he would vote for the bill upon its passage.

Mr. Sumner asked for the yeas and nays, when the Senate refused to order.

FINAL PASSAGE OF THE BILL.

The Bill was then PASSED, and at a quarter past one, the Senate adjourned over until Monday.

NORTHWESTERN WISCONSIN.

Madison Wis., May 23, '54.

EDITORS TRIBUNE.—On my way to Northwestern Wisconsin, I laid over in Milwaukee until today, to attend the celebration of the opening of the Milwaukee & Mississippi Railroad to this point; The day was beautiful, and nothing occurred to mar the festivities; while the general turn-out at Milwaukee, and the large accessions the excursion train received at every station, showed how deeply impressed are the people with the benefits resulting from a general system of liberal internal improvements. All the available running stock of the road was called into use; and every car filled, the standing seats; at least 1000 persons were aboard before the train arrived. The opening of the road is an era in Wisconsin history, and the wildly jubilant spirit manifested is evidence unmistakeable that it was so considered by those aboard.

For twenty-five miles from the lake, the country possesses but little to attract the attention of the stranger; sparsely-wooded uplands, or marshy meadows, though occasionally relieved by patches of cultivation, showing an inherent fertility of soil. In fact, not an acre we passed through but is, or can easily be made productive. But as we moved westward, the appearance of the country improved; water scenery, woodland and prairie, became so varied that the eye never tired with watching, and the exquisite beauty of this place seems to be God's own seal set upon the fairest of his works. Here, as in the greater part of our own favored State, an Eden seems to have been created, wanting but the presence of man to make it a Paradise. "Our City of the Four Lakes" lies between the neck of land separating lakes 3d & 4th, on high rolling land, sloping gently to the water's edge on either side. From the Capitol these two lakes can be seen stretching out and almost environing the village, their pinced surface reflecting the closely wooded shores opposite; altogether presenting a landscape, which for natural beauty can safely defy comparison.

The business of Madison has not yet assumed a decided character; but from its great natural attractions, the support and fostering care the location of the State Government have necessarily given it; and the fact that there is now no competing place within thirty-five miles, seem to warrant the sanguine expectations formed of it and the present rates at which real estate is held.

THE BOSTON SLAVE CASE.

The Boston Atlas of Friday morning has the following relative to this case;

In pursuance of a warrant issued Wednesday afternoon by U. S. Commissioner Loring, U. S. Marshal Freeman arrested the same evening a colored man named Antony Burns, upon the charge of being a fugitive from labor, and having escaped from the service of Charles F. Suttle, merchant, of Alexandria, Va. He was taken into custody in Court street, near the head of Brattle street, and quartered over night in the Court House. Burns is about 23 or 24 years of age, stout built, and quite intelligent. He is said to have escaped from his master at Richmond Va. in March last, and since that time has been at work for Mr. Coffin Pitts, second hand clothing dealer in Brattle street.

At 9 o'clock yesterday morning, Burns was examined before U. S. Commissioner Loring, in the U. S. Court Room, Seth J. Thomas and Edward G. Parker, Esq., appearing for the claimant; Messrs. R. E. Dana, Jr., Charles M. Ellis, Robert Morris, and others, for the fugitive. Mr. Parker produced and read copies of the record of Circuit Court of Virginia, in session on the 10th inst., at Alexandria, certifying the fact of the application of Mr. Suttle concerning the escape of Burns from his service. Wm. Brent was then sworn, and testified as follows.

I reside in Richmond, Va., am a merchant have resided there four years; know Mr. Chas. F. Suttle; he now resides in Alexandria; he is identified the prisoner as Burns; now see him at the bar in front; he is the man referred to in the record which has been read: he is owned by Mr. Suttle as a slave; he was formerly owned by Mr. Suttle's mother; Mr. Suttle has owned him for the last twelve or fifteen years; I once hired Anthony of Mr. Suttle; this I think was in the years 1846, '47 and '48: paid Mr Suttle for his services; know that he was missing from Richmond on or about the 24th day of March last; have not seen him since until within a day or two past; last night I heard Anthony converse with his master.

At the request of the prisoner and his counsel, a further hearing in the case was postponed till Saturday, at 9 o'clock, A. M. Burns remains in the custody of the U. S. Marshal. But few persons were aware of the arrest and examination, and there was no unusual stir about the Court House.

A meeting is to be held this evening at Faneuil Hall to consider the subject.

A Nuisance---Where is the Marshal?

Messrs. Editors:

There is an intolerable nuisance in the Third Ward to which the attention of the Marshal has been again and again called by letter and personal application. As yet, however, he has paid no attention to it. Is it not his duty to abate such nuisances: and if he refuses, what course should be resorted to?

Milwaukee, May 31st. MANY CITIZENS,

The Riot at Boston.

The papers received by mail last evening bring us some further details of the Fugitive Slave Riot at Boston. Upon the announcement of Burns' arrest, upon the claim of Col. SUTTLE, a large meeting was held at Faneuil Hall. Several exciting speeches were made and the meeting still in progress, when some are cried out that a rescue of the prisoner (who was confined in the Court House) was about to be attempted. The Courier describes what followed thus:

"There was a general rush in the direction of Court square and, upon our arrival there, the multitude began to storm the doors of the Court House. Those on the east side were first attacked, but without avail. The rioters then went to the west side, threw stones through the windows, and attempted to batter down one of the doors with a heavy beam. Failing in this, two men came forward with axes, and deliberately cut a hole through the lower part of the door, and subsequently forced it open. A number of persons rushed in, but they were repulsed by the Marshal and his aids.

During this struggle some thirty shots were fired by the rioters, and Mr. James Batchelder, a special officer, who was resisting the entrance of assailants at the shattered door, was shot dead. The weapon discharged at him must have been a blunderbuss, as its contents embraced many bullets, some of them of a very large size. His bowels were literally torn out, and he died almost instantly. He was a truckman, in the employ of Mr. Peter Dunbar, and leaves a wife and one child."

The Mayor speedily summoned the Military to the aid of the civil power, and after a while the rioters were repulsed and quiet restored. This took place during Friday night. The excitement continued throughout the next day, and large delegations poured into Boston from the adjacent country but no further outbreaks occurred.—Meanwhile the examination of Burns still continues. The affair has been noticed in both Houses of Congress.

From the New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 25.

Intelligence received in this city indicates that the Greek insurrection is in reality progressing, and is being nursed and encouraged by Russia, as an annoyance to the Turks. The revolutionists recently made overtures to Mr. De Leon, the American Consul General at Alexandria, for an alliance with the United States, proposing, in return for such aid as we might give them, to cede to us the port two islands in the Grecian Archipelago. I have not heard yet whether Mr. De Leon has transmitted the proposition to Washington, or if so, what is the disposition of the President with reference thereto. It is not difficult to see in this movement the far-reaching hand of Russian diplomacy, endeavoring to draw us, indirectly, into antagonism with the allied powers, if not in sympathy with the Cossack.

There is reason to suspect that Russia will, ere long, offer the United States tempting bribes for its alliance, including a repeal of all duties on American products imported into Russia, and the offering of liberal bounties on some important articles. As the Russian ports are all blockaded, she will probably seek to introduce them through Prussian Baltic ports, evading a blockade, thereby not permitting the goods to lose their American ownership until after their introduction.

IMPORTANT ARREST.—An officer arrived in town yesterday, from Davenport, Iowa, in search of a man named St. John, charged with forgery and bigamy, committed at that place. Marshal Gallagher and Deputy Sheriff Whitney, of this city, joined in the search, and at one o'clock this morning he was arrested at Berea. He was in bed, his wife and two children occupying the same room.—Some five thousand dollars in money, the product of the forgery, and two valuable gold watches were found upon his person. Marshal Gallagher describes the scene, at his arrest, as heart-rending. His wife, to whom he has been married eight years, the greater part of which time has been passed by him in absence from home, is a most estimable woman and devotedly attached to him. He has another wife at Davenport, and still another at Indianapolis, a young lady of 18, to whom he was married in January last. He was sent back to Iowa this morning in custody of an officer.—Cleveland Herald, Friday

Fugitive Slave Excitement at Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, May 26

A tremendous excitement was created here this afternoon. A telegraphic dispatch was received here by Messrs Cobb and Wheaton, abolitionists, that a fugitive slave in charge of a United States Marshal, on his way to the South, would arrive in the 6½ o'clock train. The bells were rung, and upwards of 2,000 persons turned out and attacked the car. A negro was caught, but he proved to be a passenger residing here, and no fugitive slave was discovered.

Mrs. Robinson Convicted of Murder:

TROY, Sunday, May 28.

The Jury in the case of Henrietta Robinson, charged with murder, after being out nearly three hours, returned with a verdict of guilty. She received the verdict with great boldness, and exclaimed, "Shame on you, Judge! you are prejudiced against me." She also charged the Jury with being bribed. Sentence was deferred until Monday morning, to allow her counsel to bring in a bill of exceptions. The prisoner's manner, after the rendition of the verdict was strange, and her language incoherent.

THE NEW UNIVERSITY BUILDING.—Operations were commenced to-day on the new building for the University. Col. A. A. Bird has the contract for the work, for which he is to receive the sum of $16,000. He, to-day, put on to the work 20 quarrymen, 15 stone cutters, and 24 teams for hauling stone. It is to be covered in by the first of November next and completed by the 1st of June, 1855, though the Col. anticipates the completion of the work a month or two in advance of the contract time.—Madison Democrat.

IMPORTANT TO RAILROAD CONTRACTORS.

HAVING the entire agency of STOWELL'S EXCAVATING AND GRADING MACHINES, for the state of Wisconsin, I take pleasure in informing contractors and the public generally, that I shall be able to furnish them after the middle of June with the best excavating machine now in use, and no humbug. This machine is drawn by seven yoke of oxen, and will load into carts or waggons from six to ten hundred cubic yards per day, at a cost of not more than fifteen dollars.

This machine can be afforded for the small sum of $700 and will do the work of 75 or 100 men, and more work than the best steam excavators that cost from $6,000 to $8,000.

For reference see card below.

We the undersigned having witnessed the practical operation of one of B. T. Stowell's excavating and grading machines on the Mississippi Central Railroad, on the works of Messrs. Healy, Holman, Sims & Co., where it landed in to carts, earth composed of sand and clay, at the rate of three loads per minute, and we cheerfully recommend it to the

MILWAUKEE MUTUAL

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.

Office 185 East Water Street.

Capital over $185,000—in Cash and Premium Notes

THIS Company offers unrivalled facilities for the insurance of Buildings and Personal Property against fire. The advantages offered are exactly by which the risks are commenced, as the real estate insured is by law bound for the assessment made to cover losses beyond the power of extension. Every person insured is a member of the Company, and entitled to vote. The cost of insurance does not exceed one-third as much as the Stock Companies, paying nothing of the increased security and the incomparable ease with which losses are settled. During the last five years, the Company have issued 2600 Policies, and made but three assessments at a cost to the property insured, not exceeding two mills on the dollar. Its business is principally confined to this State.
